11/15/26

- How does seeing yourself as a steward rather than an owner change the way you think about your resources, time, and abilities?
- Why might the third servant’s decision to keep the money safe seem reasonable, and what does the parable reveal about his fear?
- Where does the difference between preserving a gift and using it for its intended purpose become clear in the sermon’s teddy-bear illustration?
- Both faithful servants receive the same welcome despite bringing back different amounts. How does this challenge the way we compare our contributions?
- How can we recognize a real limitation while remaining open to a calling that feels uncomfortable or unfamiliar?
- What do the examples of the child’s gift and the hospice nurse suggest about the significance of gifts that may seem small?
- What is one gift entrusted to you that you could put to work for someone else, and what first step would help you act despite fear of loss?
