FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Sermon Discussion Questions:

"Tomorrow’s Church"
11/22/26

- The sermon calls young people both today's church and tomorrow's church. How might holding both truths change the place we give them in congregational life?
- Where can nostalgia or cynicism keep a church from acting faithfully, and how could getting to know another generation challenge those habits?
- What belongs to the gospel we pass on, and what church practices might a new generation need freedom to reshape? How can we discern the difference?
- In 1 Peter 5, leaders are called to serve willingly and by example. What could that kind of leadership look like in our relationships with young people?
- Peter calls everyone to humility. What can younger and older Christians learn from one another that neither generation could learn as well alone?
- The sermon connects casting anxiety on Christ with belonging to his worldwide church. How could that larger belonging change the way we face uncertainty?
- What concrete act of encouragement, generosity, listening, or participation could help another generation recognize Christ's care this week?
